A FACE.

I met a face today in the crowded city street,
And I cannot get it out of my heart—it was so sweet.
Not that the curves were faultless, nor the coloring pink and white;
Not that the eyes were like the eyes of which men love to write;
Not that the brow was finely shaped, or beautiful the hair,
But, oh, for the gentleness that dwelt like the smile of angels there!

That tender light in the steady eyes—it lingers with me yet—
Those calm, true eyes, full oft, I know, with tears of sorrow wet;
That tender mouth, so womanly in its gentle, sweet repose;
That faint pink tint in her pale, thin face
Like the flush of a sweet wild rose.

Pure as a lily I know she is, for into my soul there came
As I passed her by in the crowded street a sudden leaping flame,
A quickened honor for womanhood—a reverence deep and strong—
And my world worn heart with its heavy cares grew light and full of song.

And ever since then through the passing hours, and now in the solemn night,
That pure, true face, with its womanly eyes, is making my sad life bright.
And ever since then there's a peace within and a new found joy complete—
God bless the woman I met today in the crowded city street!

Mosquitoes in Alaska.

At our camp for the night on a grassy knoll in Alaska, the mosquitoes and other flies were in greater numbers and more ravenous than we had ever previously experienced them. The whole insect world seemed to hail our arrival with the same relish that reservation Indians welcome government rations. Their attacks were fierce and incessant. Our poor brutes, tortured into a frenzy, though hobbled, stampeded back and sought escape from the torment by sinking into the swamp through which we had labored only a few hours before. The next morning, however, afforded us a delightful rest, for a stiff breeze from the southward swept the air clear of the pests and granted man and horse a short respite. When plagued by flies our leader, who wore a brass bell, would create a continual tinkling, but when unmolested the band would seek a soft patch of grass and go soundly to sleep, profiting by the unusual lull.—E. J. Glave in Century.

Why the Boy Didn't Sit Down.

A seven-year-old Detroit youngster, not famous for his angelic qualities, was paying a day's visit to a nine-year-old in a distant portion of the city, where he had made a previous visit about six months before. The boy stood around nervously and refused to sit down, notwithstanding the most pressing invitation.

"Why don't you sit down?" persisted his host's mother.

The boy shook his head.

"You didn't act so when you were here before," said the lady; "why do you do so now?"

The boy hung his head and began to stammer:

"W-w-well," he hesitated, "mother's arm was broke before, but it's well now."—Detroit Free Press.

People's Eyes and Public Clocks.

Oculists say that the public clocks of New York are a useless boon to a large percentage of the people, and that perhaps two-thirds of those who pass the city hall are unable to distinguish the figures on the dial of the clock. It is pretty well established, however, that most persons are so familiar with the proportions of the dial that a dial without figures, and supplied with large and broad hands conspicuously painted, could be read by many to whom the ordinary public clock is a blank.—New York Sun.

Couldn't Do It.

"Tom was madly in love with Cora, and she told him if he would look her straight in the eye and tell her that he never loved another, she would marry him."

"Did he do it?"

"No; he couldn't."

"Had loved another, had he?"

"Oh, no; he was cross eyed!"—Exchange.

Bachelor's Logic.

"Why don't you get married?" said X. to a friend of his.

"Because, in the first place, I detest women on principle; secondly and chiefly, because marriage would interfere with my literary work."

"What class of work?"

"I am writing love stories."—Pays.

The desert of Sahara is becoming a garden. Within a few years 12,000,000 acres of land have been made fruitful by artesian wells. But there are 900,000,000 acres yet to be reclaimed before all the sand wastes of Africa are utilized.

During the reign of Henry IV of England no person of a lower estate than a knight banneret was allowed to wear cloth of gold or large sleeves or to use either ermine or marten fur on his gown.

The days of the giraffe are numbered. A few years ago herds of seventy or eighty were common in parts of Africa, while a herd of nineteen is now considered a large herd.

It is not a waste to spend your money on newspapers and magazines, because then you learn to talk about something else besides your neighbors' affairs.

LONGSTREET SERVING A CANNON.

An Interesting Episode of the Great Battle of Antietam.

Longstreet, born a soldier, graduated at West Point, experienced by years of active duty in the Mexican war and in other service as an officer for the regular army, was an excellent artillerist, sighting a cannon with as much precision as a pistol or musket. At the battle of Antietam, or Sharpsburg, McClellan sent a strong force against an unoccupied portion of Longstreet's line. The latter was quick to notice this movement. Calling to General Sorrell and Captain Latrobe to follow him, Longstreet galloped to the gap in his line, toward which pour the Federals were advancing rapidly. Two cannon had been left there, almost the entire crew of both guns dead or lying desperately wounded.

Longstreet instantly dismounted, and with the aid of Sorrell and Latrobe wheeled the heavy pieces into line, double shotted them and trained them on the advancing Federal line. Longstreet sighted both pieces and jerked the lanyards with his own hands. The effect was terrific. Both shots went through, mowing great gaps in the Federal line. The pieces were loaded and trained rapidly, so that again and again the advancing line of Federals was broken and momentarily halted, giving time to accomplish what Longstreet had in view—the re-establishment of his own line concentrating at that point of attack.

Noticing a group of Union soldiers watching the fight from a distant hill, Longstreet elevated his two pieces and fired at them. The shells went just above the group, in which was McClellan, scattering them immediately. Unknown to the Confederate officers McClellan sent post haste for one of his best batteries. A few minutes later Lee and Longstreet were conversing on a high hill to the east of Sharpsburg, near the point from which Longstreet had been firing. While these two were talking General D. H. Hill rode up, bringing a message to Lee. Longstreet advised Hill to dismount, as his conspicuous appearance on horseback might draw the Federal fire. For some reason the advice was not followed.

A few seconds later a puff of smoke drew their attention for the first time to the Federal battery which McClellan had just posted. The shell aimed at Lee, Longstreet and Hill was well directed. Lee was on one side of Hill, his hand resting on the bridle of the latter's horse. Longstreet was on the other side of the horse, a few feet away. The shell struck Hill's horse, cutting off both legs just below the knees. The poor brute fell to his knees and remained in that position, with his back at an awkward slant, while Hill was making vigorous and very ludicrous, because necessarily awkward, efforts to dismount. He first threw his leg, in the usual fashion, over the cantle of the saddle, but in his haste came near toppling forward over his horse's head.

Lee and Longstreet both laughed heartily at Hill's position and hastened to help him dismount. Hill, throwing one leg over the pommel of his saddle, dismounted without help and then joined in the laugh at his expense. The same shell from McClellan's battery, narrowly missing Lee and Longstreet and killing Hill's horse, went on its way of destruction, exploding over a Confederate regiment behind Hill, killing and wounding a considerable number of men.—Atlanta Constitution.

Libby Prison as an Investment.

The gentleman who alone and unaided, except for sundry hard American dollars, captured Libby prison and transported it bodily to Chicago is W. H. Gray.

According to Mr. Gray's figures the Libby enterprise cost the company a round $100,000. In the first instance, $23,300 was paid for the building as it stood in Richmond. Then came the cost of taking it down and transportation to Chicago—no small item, since it filled 118 cars and cost $12,000 freightage. Then came the rebuilding, with the nicest care to having the Chicago version an exact reproduction of the original, and then a handsome wall was built around the whole structure.

"But it was a paying investment," said Mr. Gray, with a satisfied smile. "During the Democratic convention our gate receipts averaged $500 per day, and they have frequently reached $900."—Washington Post.

How Lightning Burns.

Burning is a most common result of lightning stroke. The parts chiefly and first affected in this manner are the upper portions of the body—the head, forehead, face and neck. Out of sixty-five cases noted Dr. Bullard found that forty-four were injured about the head. If the person struck be standing, there is usually a deep hole in the foot, where the lightning leaves the body. Wounds made as if cut with a knife are also occasionally found.—Exchange.

What Confirmed the Suspicion.

Mary (angrily)—I think you are the biggest fool in town, John.

John (mildly)—Well, Mary, mother used to tell me that when I was a boy, but I never thought she was right about it until I married you.—Detroit Free Press.

"Moos" Cowed the Conductor.

The Paris correspondent of The Vossische Zeitung relates a comic incident which took place during some cheap trips on the Paris-Havre railway. The pleasure seekers found only half the necessary quantity of carriages at their disposal, and at the station Harfleur the overplus was put into a number of cattle cars, which were quickly provided with seats made of boards set upon blocks of wood. No sooner did the ticket taker enter to demand the passengers' tickets than he was greeted with a chorus of well imitated "moos!" and the joke extending itself to all the other cattle cars he at last desisted from his attempt.

At the next halting station the station master began a remonstrance, but "Moo! moo! moo!" sounded so overpoweringly that he retired. The train finally arrived at the terminus, Montvillier. Here the passengers, imitating the awkward leaps of cattle, sprang through the gate by which traveling beasts usually leave the station. The station master caught one of them by the collar.

This was the signal for the whole crowd to lower their heads and butt at him vigorously with terrible lowing, so that he was quickly obliged to take to his heels, followed by a final triumphant "Moo." The whole company, who had joined without premeditation in the joke, then broke out into a peal of laughter, and giving their tickets to a smiling official standing by peacefully left.

The Parsee Home.

Commenting on the changes wrought of late years in the Parsee community, Mr. Rajendralala Mitra, LL. D., C. I. E., in a lecture given in Calcutta, says: "At the beginning of this century the Parsee at home differed very little from his Hindoo fellow subjects. The furniture of his house was the same, and he enjoyed life squatting on cushions and carpets like the Hindoos. His victuals consisted of rice, homemade unleavened bread, kid, mutton and vegetables, dressed exactly in the same way as Hindoo dishes are. He ate from plates of silver, bronze or brass, according to circumstances, as did the Hindoos, and his lady sat apart and took her meals separately from the male members of the family. Among the higher and middle classes of Bombay these customs have been entirely given up.

"In no respectable Parsee house are the old farsh or takia to be met with—chairs and couches have entirely set them aside. Metal plates have made room for glass and china, and the meal is now served on English tables, and tea, leavened bread and pastry figure thereon. At ordinary meals the rice and curry still hold their ground, and on ceremonial occasions English dishes are generally eschewed. The restriction about the lady of a family dining with her male relations has also been to a great extent set aside."

Two Nautical Expressions.

These two expressions, "weighing anchor," and "under way," are quite distinct, but have been and still are sadly confused. The following is in Latham's edition of Johnson:

"Weigh, s., in navigation, act of leaving the moorings (with under).'

Criticism of this absurdity is a waste of words. The "weigh of a ship" is nonsensical. A substantive weigh could only be applied to the anchor, as it is this that is weighed, not the ship, but the "weigh of an anchor" is not more familiar to me than the "weigh of a ship." The way of a ship is intelligible. It means vulgarly her course or track, technically her progress. A ship is under way not merely at the moment when she leaves her moorings, but all the time she is sailing. "Under way" is probably borrowed from the Dutch, though cognate expressions exist in German (unter weges), Danish (underveis) and Swedish (under vagen). Hexham's Dictionary of 1658 has "onder wegen, under way or upon the way," and I am told by a Dutchman that "Het schip is onder wegen" means, "The ship is en route," and is the regular phrase.—Notes and Queries.

Is It Worth While?

Every careful economy involves labor and leisure. The best bargains are those which are pondered over and worried over, and during the negotiation of which you have tramped many miles from store to store, and through them all, up and down and home and back again, to match and compare and consult, and at the end of which you are a physical and moral wreck. I doubt if a real bargain can be picked up by any other process. Watch the wild eyed, careworn, seamed ladies you jostle against in elevators and who back into you on the pavements, and you are observing successful bargainers. Is the game worth the candle?—Chicago Post.

She Was Not Consulted.

A girl forced by her parents into a disagreeable match with an old man, whom she detested, when the clergyman came to that part of the service where the bride is asked if she consents to take the bridegroom for her husband, said, with great simplicity:

"Oh, dear, no, sir; but you are the first person who has asked my opinion about the matter."—London Tit Bits.

DUMMIES FOR DRESSES.

Figures of Zinc That Enable Women to Become Their Own Dressmakers.

Half a dozen ladies were standing outside of a doorway on a down town business block. Two or three of them were rather slenderly built, while the others were inclined to stoutness. Although they remained there together for several hours, none of them said anything. This was probably because they had no heads. In fact they were made of zinc as far down as just below the hips, while beneath there was nothing at all except an iron stick for each one, with a base to stand upon. It was evident that they were dressmakers' dummies.

Unlike most such dummies, however, these represented the figures of real people. A reporter found by inquiry that the manner of making them is rather curious. For example, Mrs. Jones, for reasons presently to be explained, wants to have one constructed after the model of her own shape. She goes and has herself measured as if for a dress and a costume is cut out according to the measurements. But the material, instead of being silk or other cloth, is sheet zinc. When the pieces have been cut out they are soldered together, instead of being sewn, and thus is obtained a reproduction of the figure of Mrs. Jones.

Necessarily the measuring, cutting and shaping have to be done very carefully, inasmuch as the dummy must have precisely the form of Mrs. Jones. She has it sent home and it serves in future for dressmaking purposes as a substitute for herself—that is to say, she has all her dresses fitted upon it instead of having to bother with that part of the business herself. Any woman will testify what an aggravating bore it is to have a dress fitted, requiring as it does hours of standing before the mirror and all sorts of alterations and readjustments, all of which is a trial to both patience and temper.

But with a dummy to fit the dress upon most of this trouble is avoided. If a dressmaker is employed she can do all the fitting on the model, and if the gown fits the latter it will equally satisfy the requirements of Mrs. Jones. Of course this assumes that Mrs. Jones does not get particularly fatter or thinner, in which case she would be obliged to have herself measured for another dummy. However, the greatest advantage of this device is that Mrs. Jones is able to send her dummy to the dressmaker's house and she need not go there or disturb herself again about the matter, having provided the materials, until the gown is sent home all ready to be put on.

Most women are obliged to make their own dresses, and for their purposes such a dummy is invaluable, inasmuch as they are thus enabled to fit their own waists and drape their own skirts as well and as easily as if they were making a costume for somebody else. The zinc dummies cost from eight to twenty dollars. The price of them goes up rapidly with the avoirdupois of the purchaser, so that a dummy with a 48-inch bust costs at least twice as much as one with a 36-inch bust measure. It is probable, therefore, that before long similar dummies will be made for men, who can thus have clothes made for them by their tailors without being obliged to be measured.—Washington Star.

An Eccentric Bishop.

Bishop Wilson, of Calcutta, had as housekeeper a venerable lady who remembered the duel between Sir Philip Francis and Warren Hastings, on Aug. 17, 1780. On entering the cathedral on a Sunday morning, fully robed, lawn sleeves and all, and passing the pew where the old lady sat, he would pause and give her the "kiss of peace" before all the congregation, and this although he had met her at breakfast.

His sermons, too, were racy. Preaching against dishonesty, especially in horseflesh, as one of the great English failings in India, he went on, "Nor are we, servants of the altar, free from yielding to this temptation." Pointing to the occupant of the reading desk below him: "There is my dear and venerable brother, the archdeacon, down there; he is an instance of it. He once sold me a horse; it was unsound; 'I was a stranger and he took me in.'"—Exchange.

Thackeray's Head.

Thackeray, like most Anglo-Indian infants, was sent, when he was about five years of age, to the mother country for mental and physical nourishment. An aunt with whom he lived discovered the child one morning parading about in his uncle's hat, which exactly fitted him. Fearing some abnormal and dangerous development of the brain, she carried him at once to a famous physician of the day, who is reported to have said, "Don't be afraid, madam; he has a large head, but there's a good deal in it!" His brain, when he died—fifty-three years later—weighed 58½ ounces.—Harper's.

A Pretty Hard Corset.

In 1585 the corps pique, a corset, was a hard wooden mold, "into which the wearer was compressed and suffered from the splinters of wood that penetrated the flesh. It took the skin off the waist and made the ribs ride up, one over the other."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, JANUARY 28, 1893.

H. H. GRANICE - - - - - - - - - - EDITOR

A dispatch from Washington says: The Pacific Coast men in Congress look with some interest for a fuller version of Judge Nelson's decision, rendered in Detroit the other day on the constitutionality of the Anti-Chinese law than originally printed. Geary of California does not believe that portion reported in the press dispatches touches the real gist of the matter. "When we get the decision in full," he said, "we shall probably find it applies merely to some clauses of the old law enacted into a new one. The central figure of the new law is the registration provision, concerning which there has yet been no chance for a contest, and will not be before next May. Even if by any chance one section of the law were declared unconstitutional, that would not affect the rest, so I have no fear for the validity of the law as a whole."

THE San Jose News says there is reason to hope for better prices for prunes than prevailed last year. This hope is founded on the fact that the prune crop last year in France and Italy was below the average. The News adds that there is an intimation in dispatches received from the East that dealers are withholding California prunes, thus compelling consumers to resort to the cheaper products of Eastern Europe. California prune-growers should bear in mind that under the present tariff foreign-grown prunes have to pay a duty of 2 cents a pound. To maintain present prices the next Congress must be induced to make an exception of prunes in the proposed revision of the tariff.

THE town of St. Helena has become involved in litigation. The corporation has appealed to the Superior Court for a temporary injunction against Thomas Sheehan, to keep him from committing the offense of creating a nuisance, also to order defendant to appear and show cause why injunction should not be made perpetual.

New Bills Introduced.

Senator Ragsdale of this county has introduced the following bills into the Senate;

An act for the erection of a monument to Gen. Vallejo in the park in San Francisco, or in the courthouse grounds of Santa Rosa.

An act for the improvement of the veteran's home in Napa county.

An act in regard to free libraries in towns of less than 100,000 inhabitants.

An act relative to the rights of suffrage.

An act to prevent combinations to obstruct the sale of live stock in California.

An act relative to the sale of imitation butter.

An act to amend section 8 of an act authorizing the incurring of indebtedness by municipal corporations, relating to the issue of bonds, etc.

An act to provide furniture for the Feeble-Minded Home at Glen Ellen, an act for the improvement of the grounds of said institution, and an act for building a wing to the present building for the female department.

An act to amend the civil code permitting the establishment of Mutual Insurance Companies.

An act to amend the civil code relating to the proof and acknowledgement of instruments.

What a Pity

H. BROSIUS, an old business man of San Jose, has been swindled out of $1,000 by green goods men of New York. As his money was sent to purchase counterfeit money, there is a general feeling that he was righteously served.

THERE is a woman in Kansas who is not only supporting her husband, he being too busy with politics to work, but who is also paying, in installments, the bill for his first wife's funeral. This would indicate that eligible men are very scarce in Kansas.—Marysville Appeal.

The senate financial committee met Wednesday evening and decided to report favorably on Ragsdale's bill making an appropriation of $119,000 for the purpose of adding a wing to the Glen Ellen Home for the Feeble-Minded.

A Boston Boy's Eyesight Saved—Perhaps His Life

By Hood's Sarsaparilla—Blood Poisoned by Canker.

Read the following from a grateful mother: "My little boy had Scarlet Fever when 4 years old, and it left him very weak and with blood poisoned with canker. His eyes became so inflamed that his sufferings were intense, and for seven weeks he Could Not Open His Eyes.

I took him twice during that time to the Eye and Ear Infirmary on Charles street, but their remedies failed to do him the faintest shadow of good. I commenced giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla and it soon cured him. I have never doubted that it saved his sight, even if not his very life. You may use this testimonial in any way you choose. I am always ready to sound the praise of because of the wonderful good it did my son." ABBIE F. BLACKMAN, 2388 Washington St., Boston, Mass. Get HOOD'S.

An Enemy Baffled.

There is an enemy with whom thousands are familiar all their lives, because they are born with a tendency to biliousness with this enemy they are constantly battling with ineffectual weapons. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will baffle it. Mere purgatives will not reform a disordered condition of the liver indicated, not by constipation alone, but also by sick headache, yellowness of the skin and eye balls, nauseated tongue and uneasiness, more particularly upon pressure on the right side, upon and below the short ribs. Avoid drastic purgatives which gripe and weaken the intestines, and substitute this world famous anti-bilious cordial, which likewise removes malarial, stomachic and kidney complaints rheumatism and nervousness. As a laxitive of the bowles, painless but effectual, it improves appetite, sleep and the ability to digest, and possesses the additional advantage of a standard tonic.

Good Looks.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of the vital organs. If the Liver be inactive, you have a Bilious Look, if your stomach be disordered you have a Dyspeptic Look and if your Kidneys be affected you have a Pinched Look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alternative and Tonic and acts directly on these vital organs. Cures pimples, Blotches, Boils and gives a good complexion sold at Ed. Wegner's Drug Store. 50c per bottle.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubles with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, his Stomach was disordered, his Liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg. Doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold at Ed. Wegner' Drug Store.

Go to the Sonoma House for good accommodations. Rates reasonable. *

Delays are dangerous. Take Simmons Liver Regulator in time for dyspepsia, biliousness and all diseases of the liver.

A large number of Sonoma Valley people visited the Fair in San Francisco last Saturday.

The Ten Pin Club, composed of ten young men of this place, contemplate giving a ball on Washington's birthday.

A heavy wind accompanied Thursday night's storm and considerable damage was done to fencing and windmills in some parts of the valley.

Before his death the late P. H. Vollmar of Embarcadero deeded to his wife his property in that place. The deed was recorded in Santa Rosa last Friday.

Hon. Robt. Howe of this place, the newly appointed Director of the Napa Insane Asylum, has been chosen chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board.

The home lately occupied by Mrs. Mark Wooster is offered for sale or rent. The furniture, garden utensils and carriage will be sold at auction on Saturday, January 28th, at 2 P. M. *

The Dramatic Recital announced for next Thursday evening at Union Hall will doubtless be well patronized. The readers, Messrs. Kohler and Craig, are highly spoken of as artists in their specialty. Our best home talent will furnish music.

The dog poisoner is again making his rounds under the cover of night. As usual the common curs have escaped while several valuable dogs have been made to "bite the dust." The man or woman who would poison a dumb brute ought to be given a dose of their own medicine.

The Petaluma Incubator Company is doing a rushing business. Last Monday they shipped eight incubators, seven brooders and four bone mills to different parts of the State. The incubators made by this company are acknowledged to be the best.

There will be a special meeting of the sub-committee of the Sonoma Valley Exhibit Committee at the City Pavilion next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for the purpose of turning over to the City Trustees the public receiving vault which was built with the surplus funds belonging to the committee.

A severe attack of neuralgia made it impossible for Rev. C. E. Chase to preach last Sunday evening, so the Endeavor Society took charge of the service. Mr. Chase hopes to be present next Sunday evening, when the sermon will be designed for the special interest of men, whose attendence will be greatly appreciated.

The fog which had hung over this valley like a pall for over a week gave way to the pluvial element Thursday, since which time at intervals it has been "raining pitchforks tines downwards." This rain is not needed and will cause a halt in plowing and pruning throughout the valley.

Captain Boyes has been appointed the agent of the large English real estate firm of Scott & Jackson in London. All parties wishing to sell should call and see him. He will put their places at once on the English market, where they will have the best and strictest attention. If you desire to secure a purchaser do not ask a fancy price, especially for unimproved lands. Mr. Boyes will have many parties out to see places from January 1st on. *

Jailor Weise has between twenty five and thirty prisoners under his charge in the County Jail. The offenders are charged with various crimes from petty larceny up to murder. Since Sheriff Sam Allen took charge of his office he has among other reforms, prohibited the smuggling of whiskey into the jail. To use his own expression he has "started the Keeley Cure in that institution," with the result that he has little or no trouble with his prisoners.

GRAND AND TRIAL JURORS.

Those Who Have Been Drawn From Sonoma and Vallejo Townships.

Following is a list of grand and trial jurymen, residents of Sonoma and Vallejo Townships, drawn last Monday by the Board of Supervisors, to serve during the current year:

Vallejo Township—Thomas H. Cheney, William A. Mills, Thomas C. Putnam, Ezicket W. Davis, David F. Whitlock.

TRIAL JURORS.

Sonoma Township—Sam Agnew, John M. Burke, Charles F. Carmer, David Calloway, Thomas S. Cooper, A. W. Champlin, Solomon H. Carriger, Ephriam M. Cutter. D. D. Davisson, Harry Fisheer, J. A. Farmer, Charles Filippini, Edward W. Gillan, Arthur Harrisson, John M. Hendley, J. T. Jones, Francis M. Lay, Samuel Laughlin, Hiram C. Manuel, Jacob G. Mayer, William Murray, Valentine E. Pieratt, Jos. Pritchard, Henry Rubke, John Staley, Matthew Watt, Franklin Watriss, Andrew J. Weaver, Julius Wegner, Charles S. Wilson, John Wadsworth, C. H. Wise.

Vallejo Township—Joseph Atkinson, C. A. Bodwell Jr., Charles W. Bowler, Josiah H. Benson, Jr., Jeremiah Casey, Elbert R. Charles, P. P. Clark, Adam Davidson, Joseph N. Dennison, F. S. Doty, Andrew Ducker, James F. Elphick, John C. Glenn, George D. Green, John Gregory. C. D. Grover, Frederick La Point, G. W. Ormesdy, John Jordon, A. A. Johnson, Frank Jackson, W. D. Page, Nathaniel W. Benson.

Installation and Banquet.

The following were installed as officers of Sonoma Lodge, No. 28, I. O. O. F., to serve for the ensuing term, the installing officer being District Deputy Tollman of Napa Lodge: John Johnson, N. G.; John Wagnon, V. G.; John Reve, Permanent Secretary; W. F. Breit, Recording Secretary; Eugene Robin, Treasurer.

After the installation, which was attended by a delegation of eighteen brethren from Napa Lodge and a number of visitors from other lodges, a banquet was tendered by the members of Sonoma Lodge to their guests, to which sixty Odd Fellows did ample justice.

Another Wine Sale.

V. Bulotti of this place has sold his entire cellar of red and white wines to the Napa Wine and Brandy Company of San Francisco. The city dealers have bought up most of the wine in Sonoma Valley the past month and in a few weeks there will be but little wine left in our cellars. Owing to the large number of grape vines that have been rooted up the past two years to give place to more profitable products, the wine production of this valley the coming season will be only about one-third of what it was a few years ago.

Drahms vs. Cummings.

The civil suit of A. Drahms vs. J. W. and J. E. Cummings, action to recover the sum of $107.32, balance of rent due on the Drahms ranch, and costs of suit, was tried before Judge Cheney and a jury last Wednesday. Judge Breitenbach appeared for plaintiff and Robert Poppe and J. R. Leppo for defendants. The case was hotly contested on both sides. The jury was composed of the following gentlemen: O. W. Brown Jr., John R. Cooper, D M. Eschbach, T. M. Dunn, Ned Gillan, Carl Ludeman, George Cornelius and Sol. Carriger. A verdict was rendered in favor of plaintiff for $76 and costs of suit.

Swallowed Ammonia.

Irvin, the seventeenth-months-old son of Capt. and Mrs. Rodin of the Sonoma House, while playing around the hotel last Monday afternoon, got hold of a small bottle of ammonia, and inhaled or swallowed a portion of the burning fluid. The little fellow's throat and stomach were badly burned and for a time he was in great agony. A physician was called in who applied the usual remedies for relief in such cases, and the little sufferer is now on the road to recovery.

School Apportionment.

The following is the State apportionment of school money for Sonoma Valley schools: Dunbar, $284; Glen Ellen, $284; Harvey, $284; Huichica, $284; Los Guilicos, $284; San Luis, $284; Sonoma, $1128; Summit Joint, $201; Watmaugh, $284; Enterprise, $284; Flowery, $284.

A BIG LAND SUIT.

The Result of Loose Business Methods of Pioneer Times.

The celebrated Pina land suit is now engaging the attention of Judge Crawford. The suit involves the ownership of fifteen thousand acres of agricultural land in and surrounding Geyserville valued at many thousands of dollars. This land was originally granted to German Pina by the Mexican Government and was known as the Tzbacco Rancho, says the Santa Rosa Democrat.

German Pina died in 1847, devising all his possessions to four sons and one daughter, by which Antonio Pina became possessed of one-fifth. In 1852 this grant was confirmed and patented by the United States Board of Land Commissioners. In the following year Antonio Pina died, leaving a will with M. G. Vallejo named as executor. In this instrument one-third of his estate was devised to his only daughter, Maria, an infant, with the other two-thirds to his brothers. At this period proceedings were instituted by guardian on behalf of Maria, to declare her the legitimate heir to Antonio Pina's entire one-fifth interest in the estate devised to him in the will of German Pina. The case remained in the courts until 1891, when it was dismissed. In the meantime, however, Maria Pina married Jose Ortez and died leaving a daughter, Josefa d' Ortez, in whose behalf the case is now being pushed.

The following is a translation of the original will of Antonio Pina. The absence of any mention of real estate shows with what little value it was regarded in the early days.

April 10, 1853. I, Antonio Pina, declare that I leave to Don M. Guadalupe Vallejo, executor of all my interests and of my brothers, that he may recover from all those who are owing me and pay to those to whom I am indebted, and at the same time divide to each one what may belong to them, taking first his hundred mares, with the half of the increase that belongs to you, and at the same time I request him that of my shares I leave to my daughter, Maria Anta. Pina, and the remainder divide to my brothers I owe to the lawyers $115; Mr. Pauli, $18; Don Pedro Bojorquis, one horse sound; Mr. Guadalupe West, $100; Mrs. Juan Guaca, $10; Don Ramon Sanchez owes me one horse broken well to bridle; Don Faciendo Garcia, $175; Joaquin Borjorquis, $300; Mr. Llonzo, $25; Mr. Santa Ana, one horse well broken to bridle; Juan Bejarano, one horse well broken to the bridle that I lent him; Salvador Mendez, one mare well broken to the bridle; Don Ramon Carrillo, two horses partly broken; Don Julio Carrillo, $68; Don Juan Jose Silvas, one horse partly broken.

Thos. Hopper, the lessee of the McEwen farm, has rooted out about thirty acres of vineyard and will sow the same in oats.

Wm. Gingry, who has been quite ill for some time, has gone to the County Hospital for treatment. We hope he may soon recover.

Jas. Shaw of South Los Guilicos and Jas. Law of El Verano, both solid citizens of their respective localities, were in town yesterday doing some trading.

W. Alberige, who recently sold his saloon, will plant a vegetable garden. He has leased some land on Baxter street and is now hard at work on his new venture.

The Trustees are having the school fence repaired. It was damaged during the last term of school. A strict enforcement of Sec. 1686 of the school law might have a wholesome effect upon further mischief of the kind.

Down With Imitation Butter.

The following anti-oleomargarine bill is before the State legislature for its consideration, having been introduced by State Senator Ragsdale of this county.

Section 1. Whoever, by himself or his agent, shall sell, expose for sale, or have in his possession with intent to sell, any article or compound made in imitation of butter, or as a substitute for butter, and not wholly made from milk or cream, and that is of any other color than pink, shall, for every package that he or they sell or expose for sale, forfeit and pay a fine of fifty dollars; and for a second and each subsequent offense, a fine of one hundred dollars, to be recovered with costs in any court in this State of competent jurisdiction; and any sum so recovered and paid shall go one-half to the complainant and one-half to the county where the offense was committed.

Section 2. The complainant in any action brought under section one of this Act, or the health officers of any city or town, may cause specimens of suspected butter to be analyzed or otherwise satisfactorily tested as to color and compounds; and a certificate of the analysis, sworn to by the analyzer, shall be admitted in evidence in all prosecutions under this Act. The expense of such analysis or test, not exceeding twenty dollars in any one case, may be included in the costs of prosecutions in all cases prosecuted under this Act.

Section 3. For the purpose of this Act, the term butter shall be understood to mean the product usually known by that name, and which is manufactured exclusively from milk or cream, or both, with salt, and with or without coloring matter.

Section 4. This Act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Railroad Bids.

In regard to the sale of the Donahue road, Thursday, January 12th, a bid of $420,000 was received by the executors from J. and W. Seligman & Co., and Ladenburg, Thallman & Co., through their agent P. N. Lilenthal. This was accepted by the executors and the sum of $42,000 was received, being the ten per cent required. On this a return was made which was presented to Court in Chambers at half past ten last Friday. Early Friday morning the following was filed in the Clerk's office at San Rafael by Mr. Graves:

In the matter of the estate of J. M. Donahue, deceased.

To Messrs. J. F. Burgin and P. J. McGlynn, executors of the estate of J. M. Donahue, deceased:

I do hereby offer to and do bid the sum of four hundred and fifty thousand ($450,000.00) dollars for the railway shares and property belonging to said estate and described in the notice of sale posted by you and dated December 16, 1892; and said bid is made on the condition and I will purchase said property on the condition that you will deliver to me a good and valid title to all of the property described in said notice, subject only to conditions concerning 5,000 shares of stock or trust certificates as therein mentioned. And I do hereby agree upon your exhibiting to me a good and valid title to said property and making said sale to me, to pay you the deposit stated in said notice.

Dated this 12th day of January, 1893.

WM. GRAVES.

The bid was accompanied by a regularly certified check for ten per cent of the amount. February 24th is the day fixed for deciding the matter, and on that date more bids are expected to be received.

BRAINS VERSUS BEAUTY.

Women Noted for Intellectual Power Who Are Hopelessly Plain.

One of the puzzling things difficult of solution in life is the persistency of divorce between brains and beauty. While it by no means follows that a homely woman is always brainy, or a pretty one invariably devoid of intelligence, still it is true that of all women noted for powerful intellect few have been otherwise than hopelessly plain. Mme. De Stael, the intellectual prodigy of her day, before whose wit even the great Napoleon quailed, and of whom he said, "She has shafts which would hit a man if he were seated on a rainbow," was totally without feminine grace save only the charm of a low, melodious voice. One famous word portrait describes her as a "priestess of Apollo, with dark eyes illumined by genius, and marked features expressive of a destiny superior to that of most women," which is of course only an ornamental way of saying that she was not fair.

George Eliot's biographers seldom attempt personal description, and shirk the issue by saying that she had "large, massive, homely features," which were at rare intervals softened by a smile of great beauty. Her head was colossal and masculine, her hair coarse, brown and bushy, her brow high and full, but her body was frail and delicate. And this powerful woman, whose writings have influenced all modern thought, was given over to the woman's weakness of shedding tears incessantly. It is hard to reconcile the fact with her other characteristics, and it, like her second marriage, are things her admirers like to forget. Lady Mary Montague, she of the exquisite letters, was a most untidy and slovenly woman, with a face hideously scarred by smallpox and distressingly homely. She said herself that the only reason she was glad she was a woman was because she would never have to marry one.

Margaret Fuller was quite the reverse of pretty, save for her graceful carriage, though her admirers were given to rapsodizing about her neck with its swanlike curves. An interesting fact about literary women and one pleasing no doubt to brunettes is this, that almost all intellectual stars of feminine lore were dark in type.—New York Sun.

Salvation Army Women.

The mother of the Salvation Army was the wife of General Booth. She died several years ago. Four of her daughters and two daughters-in-law are active in the work. Kitty, the eldest child, now a marshal and the wife of Mr. Clibborn, has developed the army in Switzerland and France. Emma, now Mrs. Tucker, has found her field in India. Eva and Lucy, both still young, promise in time to rival their elder sisters in usefulness. Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth is the daughter of a clergyman, and was treated with great disfavor by her family when she first enlisted in this work. For a time she served in Switzerland, and was subjected to much persecution.

As the wife of General Booth's second son and director of much of the army work in the United States, she is widely and favorably known in this country. Mrs Bramwell Booth is the wife of the general's oldest son. Before marriage she was a Miss Soper. Her great work has been the foundation of "rescue homes," which are the most successful establishments of the kind ever started in Great Britain. She is a woman of fine linguistic and literary accomplishments.—London Letter.

An Excellent Idea.

"Keep close to me," a mother was overheard to say on a ferryboat Wednesday to her two children of apparently nine and twelve. "If, however," she went on, "we should get separated at any time today, don't get frightened. Both of you have money; get a policeman to help you through the crowd and start you for this ferry. Then take the cars home. Ask your way often, and though the experience may not be pleasant you will come out all right."

This struck a listener as very sensible. Children at all grown should have possible emergencies of this sort suggested and arranged for, instead of, as is often the case, being taught to consider that to be alone in the city's streets is a hopeless and alarming strait.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

Rewarded by the Queen.

Queen Victoria, when a girl, was passionately fond of climbing walls and trees. One day at Malvern she climbed a tall apple tree, and was unable to get down. A young man named Davis, a gardener, was attracted by her cries, got a ladder and brought her down in safety. Deeply grateful, she opened her purse and presented him with a guinea. Davis nicely framed it, and ever since has been proud to tell the tale and show the piece of gold that the queen gave him so many years ago.—London Tit-Bits.

The Pope Interfered.

During the reign of Louis XV the bodices of French and Italian ladies were cut with so liberal a hand that the pope interfered and threatened the wearers with excommunication. The menace had no effect.—Exchange.

How It Feels to Lead a Procession.

"If you want to experience a novel sensation," said a gentleman who sports a colonel's uniform as member of a governor's staff whenever said governor turns out on parade, "just get on horseback and take part in some great procession like those which marked the Columbian festivities.

"It is the most curious feeling that you ever experienced, I will wager a hat. It beats hashheesh or opium smoking all to pieces. It is unlike any other thing that you ever saw or heard or felt.

"At first you are all right, and you hear the bands and see the great furrows of humanity on either side of the way as distinctly as you ever saw anything in your life. But after awhile things begin to grow blurred to your senses. The music dies away and there is nothing but a dull roar in your ears, while the crowd becomes merely a dull and indistinct mass without form or meaning in your eyes.

"But now you begin to see single figures—men hanging from the eaves of high buildings, boys perched on chimneys or signboards or in some hazardous place. You watch one of them with fascinated eyes, expecting every minute to see him fall and be dashed to pieces on the pavement. You are constantly filled with an overwhelming feeling that you are to be witness to some dreadful accident, but for the life of you you cannot turn your eyes away from it. After awhile you cease to be a human being at all and become a mere automaton. You are not controlled by human emotions, but by the magnetism of the crowd. It is some such sort of hypnotic state, I apprehend, which men get into during a battle and which makes them so unlike themselves."—New York Herald.

The Spider Hawk.

The miners of Colorado who have built cabins on the mountain sides know what a pest the small brown wood spider proves to be. They thrown their webs over our best clothes, cooking utensils, in every corner, where you can get them in your eyes and mouth. Not only that, but they will drop into the frying pan, water bucket or upon the table where you are eating. Nature has furnished a remedy and a friend when she gave the spider hawk. The name is given by miners to a small, steel blue wasp almost three-fourths of an inch in length. He can easily be recognized by the quick, nervous strokes of his wings. They build a nest up among the rafters of your cabin of wood pulp or furze from the outer coating of old dead trees. Then they are ready for business.

Every few minutes you can see your hawk climb up the rafters with a spider, sometimes carrying one four or five times his own weight. Some times they get a spider so heavy that they will fall many times before they succeed in reaching their nest. They never give up but keep on trying until they succeed. When the spider is safely placed in the nest the female hawk deposits her egg in the dead body. The hawks live only in pairs, as far as my observation goes. They become rather tame and seem to be obliged to you for building the spider trap for their benefit.—Great Divide.

Grant Allen on Literary Rewards.

Grant Allen's experience and advice may be of service to other aspirants who may fondly imagine that the successful literary man treads a primrose highway to fame and fortune. "If anybody thinks," he says, "that my upward path from obscurity to a very modest modicum of popularity and success was a smooth and easy one he is immensely mistaken. I had a ten years' hard struggle for bread, into the details of which I don't care to enter. It left me broken in health and spirit, with all the vitality and vivacity crushed out of me. I suppose the object of this series of papers is to warn off ingenuous and aspiring youth from the hardest worked and worst paid of the professions. If so I would say earnestly to the ingenuous and aspiring: 'Brain for brain, in no market can you sell your abilities to such poor advantage. Don't take to literature if you've capital enough to buy a good broom and energy enough to annex a vacant crossing.'"

"German Syrup"

Croup. We have selected two or three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these, because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack—a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

ED. L. WILLITS, of Alma, Neb. I give it to my children when troubled with Croup and never saw any preparation act like it. It is simply miraculous.

Mrs. JAS. W. KIRK, Daughters' College, Harrodsburg, Ky. I have depended upon it in attacks of Croup with my little daughter, and find it an invaluable remedy.

Fully one-half of our customers are mothers who use Boschee's German Syrup among their children. A medicine to be successful with the little folks must be a treatment for the sudden and terrible foes of childhood, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria and the dangerous inflammations of delicate throats and lungs. ®

My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasm, convulsion, and pains in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaws would act violently and set sometimes, bite her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then seemed to stop entirely, get a wild look in her eyes and rolling around, then stop sometimes; it would take two men to hold her in bed, otherwise her body would cramp and be so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which cured her entirely of all these torments, which myself and wife gladly testify it truly had the desired effect D. S. M'GILLIS.

The flesh tints are perfect, and the eyes follow you, no matter where you stand. The exquisite reproductions of this greatest painting of Ida Waugh—the most celebrated of modern painters of baby life—are to be given to those who subscribe to Demorest's Family Magazine for 1893. The reproductions cannot be told from the original, which cost $500, and are the same size (22x28 inches). The baby is life size, and absolutely lifelike. We have also in preparation, to present to our subscribers during 1893, other great pictures by such artists as Percy Moran, Maud Humphrey, Louis Deschamps, and others of world-wide renown. Take only two examples of what we did during the past year, "A Yard of Pansies," and "A White House Orchid" by the wife of President Harrison, and you will see what our promises mean.

Those who subscribe for Demorest's Family Magazine for 1893 will possess a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides a Magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep everyone posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion Magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and we give you, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. NAGLE IN COURT.

J. W. RAGSDALE, Plaintiff, vs. F. G. NAGLE, Defendant.

The plaintiff for cause of action against the defendant, alleges: That on the 16th day of November, 1888, said defendant, F. G. Nagle, received from G. W. Call the sum of one hundred (100) dollars, the property of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau; that of said money said defendant, Nagle, returned to said Bureau the sum of $20 only, and retained, and ever since has retained, the balance of said $100, to-wit, $80, for his own use, and that no part of said $80 has ever been paid; that said Bureau assigned said claim to plaintiff.

For a further and separate cause of action plaintiff alleges: That defendant is indebted to plaintiff in the sum of $80 for money had and received from G. W. Call, November 16th, 1888, for the use and benefit of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau, which claim has been assigned to the plaintiff, and that no part of the same has ever been paid.

RUTLEDGE & PRESSLEY, Attorneys for Plaintiff.

Dec. 9, 1891, complaint filed, summons issued and served. Dec. 15 default and judgment entered against defendant for $80 and costs. Dec. 16th, Nagle pays judgment.
